A close-up photograph of a tall floor vase. The vase has a wide, flared base and a narrow neck. The surface is highly textured, appearing to be made of a material like bronze or a similar metal with a rough, hammered finish. The lighting is warm and directional, coming from the upper right, which creates bright highlights on the rim of the neck and the upper right side of the body, while the rest of the vase is in soft shadow. The background is a blurred, warm-toned surface.

The background of the slide is a close-up photograph of two eggshells. The eggshell on the left is a light tan color with a network of fine, dark brown cracks. The eggshell on the right is a slightly darker, more yellowish-tan color, also showing a similar cracked pattern. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the eggshells.
